

About Us

Who We Are

Founded in 2007, America Media & Science is a nutraceutical company proudly based in the United States and headquartered in Seattle, Washington. We specialize in the manufacture and distribution of premium natural health supplements and vitamins. Through ceaseless research and innovation, we aim to be a premier leader in the nutraceutical industry.

The modern lifestyle, and the changes it has brought culturally, have created a need for an organization like us and the products we provide. Today, people often put their health and wellbeing on the backburner. Many have forgotten how to live healthily, the food we eat has changed, and the internet is full of misinformation. We are here to put a stop to an unhealthy life.

What We Do

We produce a wide range of nutraceuticals, using only the highest quality organic ingredients. Our products range from essential vitamins and minerals to male and female fertility supplements.

We believe in creating better lives for our customers, which is why we have implemented some of the industry's most rigorous production and testing standards. Our dietary supplements, food additives, and nutraceuticals are all proudly produced in FDA approved and registered state-of-the-art facilities.

Our Mission

Our mission is to create a healthier future for everyone, proving the benefits nutraceuticals can bring to you and your family. Our passion is to introduce a healthy lifestyle to your home and help you maintain it. Our products are affordable yet premium quality, conveying to our consumers they shouldn't have to compromise on their health.

The greatest investment you can make is in your health and body, ensuring you can be the best version of yourself for the longest time possible.

Our Vision

Our idea is to reach people throughout the world and provide better health choices for them all. With our products, you can provide a healthier lifestyle for you and your family.

Creating a better future for the planet begins with a healthier today. America Medic & Science strives to be the leader of that future with everything we do.
