

About Us

In March 2019, an innovative giant was formed, composed of the best of Vista Dental and Apex. We are a market leader in endodontic and restorative solutions, and pride ourselves on being a trusted partner who provides answers for our clients.

The patents and chemical formulas from Vista Dental are now expanding upon the full range of products already offered by Apex. With over 150 years of combined experience, we're an organization of professionals with a passion for providing quality service based on our clients' needs.

At VistaApex, we base research on science, innovate with clinicians in mind, and create high-quality products. Not much for boasting, we let our products speak for themselves. Quality science backs our products, while our clinical advisory panel backs the science. We're able to focus on providing better patient care, with four pillars of innovation at the forefront.

- Clinicians are the first and most important pillar. It's your problems we're trying to solve, and by listening to your needs we're able to offer solutions to many of the real obstacles you face on a regular basis. We understand a clinician's goals, and it's our job to help you achieve them.
- Our second pillar of innovation is access to state of the art facilities. Innovative research and technology is making it easier and easier to deliver quality products that don't just delay the problem, but solve it.
- The third pillar is our industry expertise, backed by a half-century of market research and successful business administration. We've been around long enough to know exactly what our clients both want and need, as well as how to carry out production to facilitate the most beneficial outcome.
- From design to distribution, quality engineering is our fourth and final pillar of innovation. Our production plan follows the best principles and practices set by leading dentists within the industry. Additionally, our restorative dental portfolio is ever-expanding, so we always have an innovative solution to offer. At VistaApex, we proudly stand behind each and every new product we put on the market.

We dream big and work hard toward our goals, especially when it comes to solving market problems. We're also able to fully appreciate the work done and the innovations achieved. Understanding innovation comes from a relaxed and patient mind, and is key to what makes us unique.
