

Do Not Resist The Night When Darkness Calls: A Response To Dylan

by: Myke Bartholomew

Do not resist the night when darkness calls.

Through age, one's ripe with peace to face that day.

Stay calm, stay peaceful as the daylight falls.

The wise with years in pocket that faced all,

Who forged their mark in time without dismay

Do not resist the night when darkness calls.

The good who grasp good deeds as wherewithal,

A silent strength which time cannot decay,

Stay calm, stay peaceful as the daylight falls.

The wild that dance free from the hand of thrall,

Who fled gilded cages on paths astray

Do not resist the night when darkness calls.

The grave who's failing sight begins to sprawl,

Might lose their eyes but keep their tongues to say,

Stay calm, stay peaceful as the daylight falls.

You see, my son, live life both full and tall.

And even if the fear of death does fray,

Do not resist the night when darkness calls.

Stay calm, stay peaceful as the daylight falls.
