FOODIE SENSATION DISHCRAWL MAKES VALPO DEBUT

Acclaimed national startup launches first food tour experience for northwest Indiana

Valparaiso, Ind. – April 26, 2013 – Dishcrawl, a national startup founded on the premise that communities can be brought together through good food and great company, is expanding to northwest Indiana this May. Dishcrawl takes food lovers on a progressive dining experience, sampling four distinctive restaurants in one night. It's like a pub crawl-only with more bite!

After a successful Chicago launch earlier this year, the company was looking to branch out to the surrounding suburbs. Valparaiso, with a diverse array of restaurants within walking distance of historic Central Park Plaza, seemed like a natural fit for the organization's plans.

"I'm truly thrilled to bring the excitement of Dishcrawl home to the region," said Jennifer Jackson-Outlaw, Dishcrawl's Chicago Brand Ambassador and a Hoosier native. "It's an excellent opportunity to highlight the incredible dining choices that awaits Chicago foodies just beyond the Indiana border."

Tickets for the May 29th event can be purchased at dishcrawl.com/chicago. Participating restaurants are kept secret until two days before the event, at which time the first location is revealed to ticket holders via social media.
