Websites to wander

Modedamour—Minimalism and neutrals are treated artfully on this image-driven site by Netherlands blogger Annemiek Kessels, whose aesthetic has attracted more than 250,000 Instagram followers (@modedamour). Perfecting the art of elevated basics, she trains her expert eye on chic yet achievable fashion, beauty and interior looks. Happy scrolling! modedamour.com

Kinfolk—Kinfolk magazine is sold in more than 100 countries and the travel section of its website reflects its internationalism, featuring scores of lesser-known destinations. You could plan a very special honeymoon around some of the suggestions featured, stopping at the most petite café in Paris, staying in a 1699 hotel on an island in Stockholm or browsing the best bookstore in Seoul. kinfolk.com/city-guides

Instagrams to inspire

The Wildflower Perth—Describing herself as a 'floral engineer', Alicia Lowe fills her grid with gravity-defying, avant-garde creations that showcase her talent for structure and shape. These living works of art set a major mood and will give you all sorts of bridal ideas. Side note: Alicia loves to travel, so your destination wedding is a definite possibility. @the_wildflower_perth

Hello Trader—This furniture, homeware and lifestyle concept store provides extremely dreamy Insta-inspiration for carefree bohemian celebrations. Browse their artisan pieces and free-spirited scenes from around the globe in earthy palettes of white, beige, green and blush, with rattan, terracotta and terrazzo, and if you really fall in love with something, you can head straight to the website to buy it. @hellotrader

Infused Waters—The health and beauty benefits of drinking water are numerous, but sometimes it is a bit boring. This refreshing take by Georgina Davies provides recipes that revive or relax while giving your daily two litres some pizzazz. If you make a habit of it, slipping fruit, herbs and spices into a glass or reusable bottle can become a lovely self-care ritual. paperplanestore.com

Pardiz—Born in Italian-speaking Lugano in Switzerland, raised in Iran, schooled in Zurich and now based in Sydney, Manuela Darling-Gansser is a lifelong traveller and passionate cook who blogs and writes books. In Pardiz, she returns to her childhood home of Iran to recount memories and share stories and Persian recipes taste-tested by her family, tapping into food trends and the social aspect of eating, from picnics to shared plates. hardiegrant.com/au

Podcast to ponder

The Moment—A collection of heartening love stories, Wondery's new series is hosted by recently engaged Canadian actor/writer/director Ingrid Haas, whose guests tell tales of real relationships in order to learn pitfalls and hacks. Topics like 'When Opposites Collide', 'For Richer or Poorer' and 'The Taylor Swift of it All' are entertaining reminders that even when romance isn't easy, it can all work out in the end. wondery.com
