

The Family Unit

Dynamic describes mine. I assume all units are dynamic in their own right. All these units are part of the whole and make up the whole. Have you read, "the sins of the fathers are revisited on the children?" Another biblical saying. The truth of the Bible is different to everybody. Some say it's literal. Some, say infallible. Many say inspired by God. I believe even these words are God inspired. My concern? Whether they'll harm or help. What I know? Both. But so it is with all. An observation? God is the father. We are the children. And, we are God in our own right. In the current era of a large populous, it may feel like we are messing up royally. Oh no! How can we stop it? What should we do? These feelings have been felt since Adam and Eve. I hear Our Creator saying, He will calm the storm. And, take comfort. He made the storm. And, we are all in this together.

A family. The parents want the child to behave a certain way. The child? We TRY to behave as taught. Reality, we do, but struggle with the feeling we don't, or can't and never will be able to please. There are parents of parents and children of children. No child is an island, no matter if we want to be or not. And, we are all islands. I hope your visit on mine is exciting, and thrilling, or calming and relaxing. And, if you get marooned, there is nourishment to sustain you within yourself, God Himself. I hope to visit your island. We all broke off the same continent. The family dynamic.
