

FMG Suite Expands To Include Insurance Providers

SAN DIEGO, Calif. - FMG Suite, an inbound marketing company, announced today that it is expanding its reach to include property and casualty agents, in addition to their established market of financial advisors.

With this launch, FMG Suite is looking to become a marketing resource for service professionals around the county. Independent property and casualty insurance agents will be able to create expertly-designed websites, populate their social media platforms with professional videos, create an easily accessible app, and create email newsletters to send out to prospective and current clients. They will also receive the high quality customer service that current FMG Suite clients have come to expect.

"We're excited about this expansion because we know our products will translate well across more service providers," said FMG Suite CEO, Craig Faulkner. With inbound marketing on the rise, Faulkner said that he is enthusiastic about helping property and casualty agents harness their digital marketing potential.

FMG Suite is opening a new office in Orem, Utah to accommodate this growing market. The company is looking forward to these new opportunities to enhance the marketing efforts of service providers within various industries.

About FMG Suite

FMG Suite, a leader in digital marketing for financial professionals and property and casualty agents, offers a total inbound marketing solution designed to increase referrals and leads through automated tools. At the heart of the system is a library of award-winning content, including videos, articles, infographics and calculators. By consistently sharing insightful content on multiple digital platforms, FMG Suite increases advisors' engagement with clients and prospects. For more information, visit <http://fmgsuiteinsurance.com>.