A two-night stay at Rome's Parco dei Principi Grand Hotel & Spa

The Eternal City is the backdrop for a spectacular car chase in Spectre, and now you can visit locations featured in the film

Located in Rome's elegant Parioli district, a few steps away from Via Veneto, the Parco dei Principi Grand Hotel & Spa is a luxury urban resort. A member of the Preferred Hotels & Resorts LVX Collection, the five-star retreat has a privileged location in one of the most refined areas of the city and offers an exceptional location, with beautiful garden and swimming pool overlooking the Villa Borghese park.

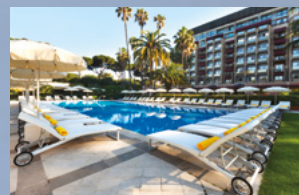

The impressive building features baroque design, heavy drapes, and Renaissance paintings. There are 179 rooms in total including 70 double deluxe rooms and 14 suites, among which are the Presidential Suite and the Royal Suite. Each designed with guests' comfort in mind, they include Empire-style armchairs, Italian marble baths and stunning views of the park, the dome of St Peter's, and the charming streets of the exclusive Parioli district.

The hotel's Pauline Borghese restaurant, meanwhile, is among the most famous in the city and specialises in refined cuisine, serving traditional and authentic Italian flavours with an accompanying wine list featuring many regional wines. And the new Prince Spa covers 2,000sqm, offering 12 treatment rooms, two multisensory couple spa suites, a wet area with bio sauna, steam room, emotional showers, Swedish shower, iced fountains and a stunning 25-metre pool.

Our exclusive prize, worth £1,000, offers one Director reader and a guest a two-night stay in a double deluxe room with breakfast each morning. Parco dei Principi is a convenient 15-minute walk away from the Spanish Steps, the Trevi Fountain and the world-famous Via Condotti. Alternatively, you can make your way down to St Peter's Basilica in the Vatican City. Famous for its dome designed by Michelangelo, it will now also be known for its backdrop to the latest Bond movie. D
