If You Can-Can

The banana in a cocktail may seem unusual, but it really lends a sweetness to the If You Can-Can, which plays well with both the tartness from the raspberry and lemon and the refreshing essence of the muddled mint.

INGREDIENTS:

Hendrick's Gin, crushed raspberry, smashed banana, pressed lemon, muddled mint

Show Stopper

The poppyseed reduction in the Show Stopper pulls the floral, outdoorsy notes out of the cocktail while the effervescence of the club soda and brightness of the oleo saccharum (a combination of citrus and sugar) are the perfect top-off.

INGREDIENTS:

Hendrick's Gin,
poppyseed reduction,
oleo saccharum,
club soda

Ooh-La-La

According to Lindsey Chronert, senior marketing manager of Snake Oil Cocktail Company, the inspiration behind these cocktails was "French burlesque meets light and fresh."

Hendrick's Society

Sweet, light and positively stunning, the Hendrick's Society can live up any table! For their event, Snake Oil Cocktail Company made this cocktail graffiti (made with sugar and edible ink) in-house, perfect for that Instagrammable moment.

INGREDIENTS:

Hendrick's Gin, smashed strawberry, pressed lime, almond, orange flower water, muddled basil, aquafaba

Botanical Bliss

"We like to create culinary-forward cocktails, which is typical of Snake Oil Cocktail Company," Chronert notes. "We include fresh produce and herbs and look to the kitchen first."

Cheers the Crowd

“For high-volume events, such as the La Jolla Concours d’Elegance, we focus on making crowd-pleasing drinks,” says Chronert.

Bubbled Up

Fresh and sparkling, this cocktail gets its gorgeous hue from steeped hibiscus.

The whole pink peppercorn, which is typically only used in a reduction, adds a kick, and the rosewater echoes the floral notes in Hendrick's Gin.

INGREDIENTS:

Hendrick's Gin,
sparkling wine,
pressed pomegranate,
fresh lime, infused
hibiscus, rosewater,
pink peppercorn
