

CANYON NEWS LOCAL NEWS ➤ CALIFORNIA US WORLD CELEBRITY DEAF

Q

ENTERTAINMENT ➤ LIFE & STYLE ➤ POINT OF VIEW ➤ SPORTS ➤

LOS ANGELES—A USC professor was detained after the false active shooter report and claims of gunfire prompted a campus wide lockdown and substantial response from the Los Angeles Police Department (LAPD) on Monday, October 2.

After the news of the mass shooting in Las Vegas on Sunday, October 1, a second shooting was reported on the campus of USC. A massive police presence was visible on the college campus after USC issued an alert telling students to shelter in place at 12:23 p.m. Within about half an hour, police had verified that there was no active shooter. The LAPD tweeted, "No danger to community."

After completing a search of a third-floor classroom in Fertitta Hall, a building of the business school where the incident was reported, John Thomas, head of USC's Department of Public Safety, wrote in an email statement:

"It was reported a faculty member during class falsely told her students there was an active shooter in the building." LAPD Deputy Chief Phillip Tingirides said, "the female professor appeared to have some sort of episode," and told students there was an active shooter on campus. The woman, whose name department officials have repeatedly declined to release, was not booked on any criminal charges, but she was detained for questioning by authorities.

Officers with the school's department of public safety let students return to classrooms around 2 p.m. In a statement released late Monday afternoon, USC Provost Michael Quick praised the rapid response from the LAPD as well as students, staff and faculty for their appropriate reaction to the alert before referring to the mass shooting in Las Vegas, which left more than 59 people dead and 527 people injured.

SUSPECT SENTENCED IN HIGH-SPEED CHASE

HOLLYWOOD—The suspect responsible for leading police on a high-speed chase that ended at Hollywood Boulevard and Highland Avenue was sentenced to 3 years in state prison on Thursday, October 5, the Los Angeles District Attorney's Office revealed.

Tony Carl Calloway Jr., 24, or Rancho Cucamonga pleaded no contest to one felony count of fleeing a pursuing peace officer's cruiser while driving recklessly, Deputy District Attorney Robert DuFour stat-

A suspect who led police on a high-speed chase throughout Hollywood was sentenced to 3 years in state prison.

On March 9, Calloway stole a car in Colton and was later spotted by authorities driving the stolen vehicle on the 101 Freeway near Parkway Calabasas. A pursuit that lasted nearly 1 hour commenced, before ending in Hollywood when police used spike strips to stop the vehicle.

After the pursuit stopped, the suspect lit a cigarette and refused orders by police to exit his vehicle. He was later arrested. The case was investigated by the Los Angeles Police Department, Hollywood Division.

DAVID GEFFEN GIVES $150 MILLION TO LACMA BUILDING

BEVERLY HILLS-David Geffen pledged $150 million to the Los Angles County Museum of Art (LACMA) planned Zumthor building on Wednesday, October 4. The pledge is the largest single cash gift from an individual in the museum's history.

"This historic commitment propels LACMA's twodecade expansion and rebuilding project forward," said Michael Govan, LACMA CEO and Wallis Annenberg Director. "David Geffen is one of Los Angeles's, and our nation's, most generous philanthropists. This gift, for which we are incredibly grateful, ensures that our new building becomes a reality. Pledges of this magnitude are incredibly rare, and David's commitment demonstrates his belief in the power of art museums to reach a broad and diverse public and create significant civic benefit.

WOODLAND HILLS—Pierce

College is planning to use the property on De Soto Avenue and Victory Boulevard to supplement the Agriculture Department, quelling resident's fear about the fate of the urban farm after the Farm Center vacated the

"The developers that drive past there everyday, their mouths water, and they just can't believe that property doesn't have something on it," said John Walker, the executive vice president of the Woodland Hills Homeowners Organization (WHHO).

Administrative Services Rolf

Schleicher and Vice President of Academic Affairs

Sheri Berger met with the homeowners on September 27, at Kaiser Permanente in Woodland Hills and assured them that no commercial development would

"We are a farm in the city, and that is very unique. We need to preserve that," said Berger. "We are serving students who grew up in the city, who may have never seen a cow, who don't know where their food comes

According to Berger, an agricultural education center is set to be built in 2020.

The building will be 8,000 square feet and will act as anchor to the Agriculture Program and fill the area left by the Farm Center. Two greenhouses, each 1,000 square feet, will be built to allow future expansions.

The Farm Center, owned and directed by Robert McB-room, occupied the land from 2005 to 2015. The Los Angeles Daily News reported when the five-year lease ended in 2010, McBroom was given a year to vacate the property. After refusing to leave the property, the Los Angeles Community College

District and McBroom came to a settlement, which stipulated that the center would from."

be built on the property.

Pierce Vice President of area two years earlier.

The early designs for the David Geffen Galleries.

PIERCE COLLEGE INTENDS TO KEEP ITS URBAN FARM

DIGICE COllege

Pierce College in Woodland Hills.

close indefinitely to the public the day after Christmas 2014, and the area would be vacated by April 15 the fol-

According to Berger, the Farm Center lease was not renewed because the college decided a better use to the property would be to educate its agricultural students, and the present enterprise wasn't educational that the college is here to meet the educational needs of our students. Our primary goal is for students to further their education, have them transfer and enter the Schleicher added that the Farm Center was good for the community and provided K-12 educational services, but it conflicted with the institution's focus to provide optimal post-sec-

"Across the state, there was a need for education in agricultural and plant sciences; there was a high demand for students, and our program was not fulfilling that demand. So we made an assessment and decided to ondary education.

workforce," said Berger.

"Our intention all along is or monetarily profitable.

lowing year.

The Zumthor building, will be named the David Geffen Galleries and is $150 million away from the necessary $650 million needed to break ground and begin construction. The David Geffen Galleries, which will replace four of the museum's seven current buildings, is intended to enable LACMA's vast encyclopedic collection to be shown and experienced in innovative ways.

"I am excited to see the positive effects this new building will have on Los Angeles's art and architectural communities. This innovative addition to the LACMA campus will ensure ongoing and expanded access to their permanent collection. LACMA will be able to touch millions of lives and create an even healthier and more vibrant community for everyone," said Geffen.

He continued, "At a time when federal funding for the arts is threatened, it's important that we foster public-private partnerships, like this one, to support arts and cultural institutions. We must ensure that the go in this direction," said

After the Farm Center's departure, the Woodland

Hills area was concerned that it would be lacking in community-engaging events. Pierce administration assured WHHO that efforts would be created within the Agriculture Department to draw in the community. A community garden, equestrian shows, and a farm store are tentative

"There's more than running events that are enterprise oriented," Schleicher said. "Could I make more money putting enterprises in there? Absolutely. But that's not what we are here for."

for the land have been available online since April 4, 2015, however, the lack of progress on the vacant plot has caused residents to question if Pierce intends to preserve the entire farmland.

time when a developer will go by that property and say,

'I'm glad it's a farm," said Walker. "They will always go by that property and say,

'How can I get my hands on

"There will never be a

According to Berger, plans projects.

Schleicher.

public, everyone, has access to these venerable institutions. I am proud to partner with the County and other members of the community in helping LACMA move this remarkable project from vision to reality. Together, we can and must make sure every person has access to the arts."

The building was originally designed to resemble the tar from the nearby La Brea Tar Pits, but has been updated and changed. It will bridge Wilshire Boulevard. If the funds are secured, the proposed project will officially break ground in 2019. The building is expected to be finished by 2023 if the timeline is not delayed.

The Los Angeles County Museum of Art is located at 5905 Wilshire Boulevard (at Fairfax Avenue) in Los Angeles. For additional information call (323) 857-6000 or visit www.lacma.org.

that to do something with it?' It's just the nature of the beast that floats through

Founded in 1947, the Clarence W. Pierce School of Agriculture was created to educate Los Angeles school children about agriculture and animals, the Los Angeles Times reported in a 1997 article. The college began instruction on 392 acres in

According to the Pierce

College website, as the San Fernando Valley grew, the need for public secondary education grew. Enrollment grew from about a hundred students in 1947, to more than 25,000 in the early 1980s. Though the college has been modernized and expanded to include additional areas of study, the Agriculture Program and the farm have remained through

Pierce College is now 426 acres, with 226 dedicated to the Agriculture Program.

Berger indicated the farm has 100 chickens, several goats, sheep, and cattle, three donkeys, a pot belly pig, a llama and a tortoise.

ture Program were not discussed at the meeting, but Berger indicated they are still present and important, but the current focus is bringing this part of the program up to industry stan-

The fields along Victory

Boulevard will be used for instructional food production, an area that was previously lacking. Berger noted, the students will learn to plant, learn irrigation techniques and learn about soils "To a lot of people on the outside, you see just land.

And you don't see anything on it and people think, 'Oh,

I can put something on it," said Berger. "Not us. We see instruction. We see laboratory space. We see training for our students.'

and soil conditions.

dard.

All aspects of the Agriculthe decades.

Woodland Hills.

the community."

BEACH CURFEWS TO BE RE-EVALUATED IN LOS ANGELES

-By Vanessa Arrendondo-

PACIFIC PALISADES—The city of Los Angeles has reached a settlement in court that would have officials go before the California Coastal Commission (CCC) to defend and re-evaluate the 30-year-old beach curfews, which close beaches to the public between midnight and 5 a.m.

The curfews, implemented in 1988 to deter crime in the area, span 11 miles of shoreline, including Pacific Palisades and San Pedro, the Los Angeles Times reported. The nighttime closures were put into effect without the CCC's advice and were extended along the coast as crime increased during the 1990s. The CCC and Venice Beach activists have been fighting the curfew since its implementation. Activists state that the beach is public land and should be accessible to residents at all hours.

The California Coastal Commission contested the issue in 2010, when homelessness was on the rise in the region. The city denied the commission's request, and expanded the curfew off the sand to the Venice Boardwalk. The CCC reopened the discussion in 2014, the Los Angeles Times reported, and requested that the city of Los Angeles provide proof that crime was still high enough to warrant the ordinances.

In 2015, the city of Venice sued, stating Los Angeles County created the curfews in defiance to the CCC. To placate them, Los Angeles City Attorney Mike Feuer was asked to draft an ordinance for 10-foot wide walkways on Dockweiler and Will Rogers Beach, that would be excluded from the curfew.

Los Angeles County remained firm on its position stating that the commission did not have jurisdiction on the shorelines. According to the Los Angeles Times, under the settlement agreement, the city will seek a permit from the city engineer and the commission, and will warn curfew violators before issuing citations.

The first hearing to discuss the issue will be Thursday, October 12 at the Westchester Senior Center in Venice, the Los Angeles Times reported.

on campus. The woman, whose name department officials have repeatedly de-

PROFESSOR DETAINED AFTER FALSE CAMPUS SHOOTING INCIDENT

By Macee Binns-

LOS ANGELES—A USC professor was detained after the false active shooter report and claims of gunfire prompted a campus wide lockdown and substantial response from the Los Angeles Police Department (LAPD) on Monday, October

After the news of the mass shooting in Las Vegas on Sunday, October 1, a second shooting was reported on the campus of USC. A massive police presence was visible on the college campus after USC issued an alert telling students to shelter in place at 12:23 p.m. Within about half an hour, police had verified that there was no active shooter. The LAPD tweeted, "No danger to com-

Reports surfaced of an active shooter on the USC campus on Monday, October 2 that turned out to be false.

munity."

After completing a search of a third-floor classroom in Fertitta Hall, a building of the business school where the incident was reported, John Thomas, head of USC's Department of Public Safety, wrote in an email statement:

"It was reported a faculty member during class falselv told her students there was an active shooter in the building." LAPD Deputy Chief Phillip Tingirides said, "the female professor appeared to have some sort of episode," and told students there was an active shooter

Marqueece Harris-Dawson,

California Assemblyman

Reggie Jones-Sawyer, Los Angeles Unified School District Board member George

McKenna and UCLA Chancellor Gene Block came together to visit Horace Mann clined to release, was not booked on any criminal charges, but she was detained for questioning by authorities. Officers with the school's department of public safety let students return to classrooms around 2 p.m. In a statement released late Monday afternoon, USC Provost Michael Quick praised the rapid response from the LAPD as well as students, staff and faculty for their appropriate reaction to the alert before referring to the mass shooting in Las Vegas, which left more than 59 people dead and 527 people injured.

UCLA Community School,

where they helped about 200 other Bruin volunteers

THOUSANDS OF UCLA STUDENTS VOLUNTEER OVER THE WEEKEND By George Morris-

WESTWOOD—Thousands of UCLA students were scattered throughout Los Angeles over the weekend as part of the annual UCLA Volun-

Over 3,500 freshman and new transfer students mobilized on Saturday, October 7 to volunteer across the region. They were led by over 400 additional UCLA Bruins including alumni, returning students, staff, faculty, parents and community members. The volunteers will be distributed throughout the city by a teer Day.

fleet of 60 school buses. The annual event sends Bruins all over the city, working on projects in K-12 schools, parks, food banks, veterans' service centers, and senior and neighborhood sites. The projects include helping move supplies, clearing brush, pulling weeds, tutoring younger students and painting murals to support schools.

Thousands of Bruins mobilized on October 7 as part of UCLA's annual Volunteer Day.

Los Angeles Councilman

work on different projects around the school. The volunteer event began in 2009 as the largest community participation event for new students in history. It has served as a model for other similar programs in other parts of California and > the United States. UCLA is one of the leading public schools in the nation, which represents itself with three pillars: education, research and service. Volunteer Day promotes and represents the service pillar, giving students the tools and transportation to support the community around

"I LOVE LUCY" WRITER BOB SCHILLER DIES

By George Morris-

PACIFIC PALISADES—Bob Schiller, writer of the hit TV series "I Love Lucy," passed away on Tuesday, October 10 at the age of 98. He cowrote the show with Bob Weiskopf who passed away in 2001.

Schiller worked with actress Lucille Ball once the series ended on "The Lucy-Desi Comedy Hour" and "The Lucy Show." He also worked with Weiskopf on other well-known shows that included "All in the Family," "Maude," "The Carol Burnett Show," "The Red Skelton Show" and "Archie Bunker's Place." Schiller spent a vast majority of his career with comedic writing. In 1935, he attended UCLA, where he penned Bob Schiller, acclaimed writer for shows such as "I Love Lucy," died on Tuesday, October 10.

comedy pieces for The Daily Bruin and used the pen name "Bob Tales."

During the 1940s, he was drafted into World War II, where he once said that He wrote columns for "Star and Stripes," boosting troop morale. Schiller received two Emmys during his career, both "the worst weapon I had to use was a pie to the face."

victories which he shared with Weiskopf. Those awards were for his work on "All in the Family" and "Flip." Both Schiller and Weiskopf also won the Paddy Chayefsky Laurel Award for lifetime achievement from the Writer's Guild of America. The duo collaborated during the 50s, 60s, 70s and 80s, until Schiller retired in 1988. He passed away inside his Pacific Palisades home with his daughter, Sadie Novello by his side.

CITY COUNCIL CONTRACTS FIRM ABOUT FLOODPLAIN MAPS

By Dylan Gera and Donald Robertsance premiums.

MALIBU—The Malibu City Council contracted the ment Agency's proposed floodplain maps of the region.

City council is challenging FEMA on the grounds that the agency's current maps are outdated, do not account for seasonal tide fluctuations, and are incorrect. According to reports, residents contend that the current proposed floodplain maps- which overlie many homes and businesses- adversely imibu's Floodplain Adminispact opportunities for fair priced mortgages, constructions loans, or insur-

Malibu website, the maps are preliminary until they are adopted during the summer 2018. A Public Appeal Period started on August 9, 2017 and will run for 90 days. During this appeal period, residents may submit appeals and protests if they disagree with the maps and believe an error has been made. Property owners who want to appeal are required to submit the scientific or technical data intended to negate or contradict FEMA's findings to Mal-evaluate all appeals and submit its findings to FEMA. Once FEMA reviews all appeals and protests and incorporates any needed map changes, a Letter of Final Determination will be issued. Six months later, maps will be adopted and become effective, as will any new flood insurance requirements. Currently, the city intends to use these flood hazard maps to help determine requirements for construction and development.

The city of Malibu will conduct a series of community meetings to inform the public about these proposed map revisions. A public outreach meeting was held on August 22.

its findings to the Malibu City Council at the council's next meeting on Monday, October 23. Assistant Public Works Director Rob DuBoux stated that the firm's report to the city council would determine the city's final decision on whether or not to file an official appeal with FEMA. Moffat and Nichol levied

The firm plans to present challenges against FEMA on behalf of Ventura and Dana Point. A deadline of November 6 is set for all appeal proposals. All of the firm's findings must be science based for FEMA to accept the revisions. If no revisions are accepted, the current maps will go into effect August 2018.

BODY FOUND IN CAR NEAR LAUNDROMAT UNDER INVESTIGATION -By Eugene Achim

WEST HOLLYWOOD—On Los Angeles Sheriff's De-Sunday, October 8, at around 4:30 p.m. a body was discovered inside a vehicle on the 7900 block of Santa Monica Boulevard. Officials from the partment were called to the scene after the body was discovered by a clerk near a laundromat in the region.

"Right now, it appears to be death by natural causes, but the coroner will have to make the final determination," said LASD Deputy Kimberly Alexander to City News Service.

According to reports, the body has been identified as a male, but the name of the victim and cause of death has not yet been disclosed to the public. Authorities are investigating the case.

According to the city of consulting firm of Moffatt and Nichol to assist the city with appealing the Federal Emergency Manage-trator. Once the Appeal Period concludes, the city will