Convert More Seminar Attendees to Clients

The biggest problem facing many financial professionals involves converting seminar attendees into clients. Not anymore. Successful conversions following seminars don't just happen. It starts with an idea that practically sells itself and persuades attendees through critical considerations, so at the conclusion, they're naturally led to working with you.

Through first-hand experience we know the Rethinking Retirement Income in America client presentation converts 60-80% of attendees into clients because it:

- Successfully shows the imminent risks with saving for retirement
- Immediately instills urgency to address those risks
- Positively positions you as the guide who can show them the way
- Consistently connects with the audience on a deeper level and offers timely solutions

Simply put, when you use the right presentation tool, seminar prospecting absolutely works. Complete the form to get your complimentary copy of the Rethinking Retirement Income in America client presentation.
