

Green Latrine's Resolution: To Get Your Carpets Clean! (and your rugs, upholstery and tile and grout.)

New Year, New Service!

Happy New Year, Washington State! You probably know Green Latrine as Seattle-area's only locally-owned Porta-Toilet/Porta-Potty/Porta-John (a rose by any other name) rental service. But, did you know we offer an array of best-in-class carpet, area rug, tile and grout, and upholstery cleaning services, too? If you thought our Porta-Toilets were immaculate, wait until you see the way we bring our Cleanliness Guarantee to your carpets and rugs, upholstery and tile and grout!

Resolve To Be Clean And Comfortable At Home

Because you know us, you know how much we love all things pristine, and not just because it rhymes with the name of our business. Whether it's our potties, our beautiful Washington State environment, or your floors and furniture, we want to keep it clean. We know you, too. We know how important it is to be able to walk barefoot knowing your high pile shag, or low pile wool, or no pile jute carpet or rugs are clean underfoot. We know how good it feels to look across a tile floor and marvel at how the grout looks like new, or to sink into the sumptuousness of a clean sofa. These simple pleasures are even more important when we're all at home a lot more often. And the truth is, they're not just pleasures, or aesthetic choices. Much like our 10 point Porta-Potty cleaning process our carpet, rug, upholstery and tile/grout cleaning is a crucial part of a sanitary, germ-free environment. If your new year's resolution is to keep yourself, and your loved ones healthy, we can help you stick to that resolution!

Resolute Expertise

This may be a new service we offer at Green Latrine, but we're not newbies to the service. Our carpet cleaning is certified by the IICRC (Institute of Inspection Cleaning and Restoration Certification), the agency that certifies carpet and upholstery cleaners. And while that may sound fancy, we consider it a non-negotiable level of education for what we do. Our technicians are also constantly educating themselves with cutting-edge training offered by the carpet cleaning industry association. We come to every job ready to put this expertise to use.

The Value of Being Local

You'd think with all this knowledge, we might over-charge, and perhaps we could get away with doing so, but value is another big part of our mission statement at Green Latrine. Because we're local, we care about you, our neighbors. It's important to us to provide the best value to our community. One way we live up to that statement is to only charge for the square feet of carpet that we actually clean. That means that areas under furniture (bed, desk, couch, dresser, table, etc.) are not part of the square footage we count in our bid for service. And, you'll always know what that bid is upfront, with no surprises, ever. Except the pleasant ones. Those we like. (One thing we do that pleasantly surprises our customers is the way we leave your carpet as DRY as possible.)

See Spot Run

They say it's not easy being green, but it sure is important to us. Green Latrine's Carpet Cleaner service experts are the top eco-friendly carpet cleaning service specialists in Seattle. The products we use are safe for everyone, children, pets, and the environment. But they're still tough and effective at removing all sorts of spots and odors. Spots caused by pets are our specialty. Your Dalmatian should have spots, your carpet shouldn't.

So, Seattle, King, Pierce, and Thurston Counties, we're talkin' to you. Unless you vacuum diligently, and live in a pet-free environment, with no small kids or folks with allergies, the Carpet and Rug Institute recommends professionally having your carpets cleaned every 12 to 18 months. Once we clean for you, you'll be so enamored by how it looks and smells (or, doesn't), you'll look forward to our visits each year. Add to it all, the incentive of keeping your carpet's warranty in effect with regular cleaning, and you have a Rainer-sized mountain of reasons to call us or visit our website.
