Published on January 18, 2017 — by Brian Brant

Adrienne Frame, former interim director at Suffolk University, has been selected as the University of Central Florida's new associate vice president and dean of students in the Division of Student Development and Enrollment Services.

Frame's knowledge stems from her 24 years in a number of higher education experiences, focused on student affairs that landed her positions at Florida State University and Colby-Sawyer College, among other universities.

"Dr. Frame is an accomplished leader who has served as a champion for students throughout her career," said Maribeth Ehasz, vice president for student development and enrollment services, in a press release. "She brings a wealth of knowledge, creativity and passion for student success to UCF, and we are fortunate to have her join the Knight family."

The new associate vice president and dean of students will supervise the Student Health Services, Counseling and Psychological Services, Student Rights and Responsibilities, Neighborhood Relations and Safety Education, and Academic Services for Student-Athletes. The Massachusetts native said it is an honor for her to join UCF, as she looks to "bolster student growth and development both inside and outside of the classroom environment.”
