Human Resource Consulting in Brazil releases data web platform to improve global health management

Mercer Marsh Benefits Brazil is releasing an online tool with data integration which promises to improve the possibility of combining information to result in higher life quality to the companies' employees and their families. The big news was announced at I Mercer Marsh Benefits Health Forum, which took place in Sao Paulo on August 21st.

Known as Mercer Marsh Health, the data model is capable of doing all the connections and integrations from the most diverse health databases. "Reports, panels and other parameters related to topics like medical casualty, medical statements, periodical exams, life insurance, health management programs and drug benefits will be available for the clients in an intuitive and friendly interface", describes Helder Valério, Health Promotion Manager at Mercer Marsh Benefits Brazil.

With an interactive and modern interface, Mercer Marsh Health also provides customized links by business area or a specific sector, adjusting itself to each user's necessities. It's the only tool in the market to integrate such a diverse database with customized search, data analytics and health risks mapping. Our clients now have the chance to choose the best program to each risk group, resulting in higher productivity rates. Using all the resources the tool has to offer, the companies will be able to provide better health care to their employees with significantly lower costs. Technology is future.
