A glass act

This family home in south west London combines thin-framed architectural glazing with clean lines and white render to achieve a stunning aesthetic effect.

The contemporary five-bedroom property has a strong connection with the garden space via IQ Glass's slim frame sliding glazed doors, which offer views out to the pool.

Structural silicone-jointed rooflights combine with a circular frameless window to flood the rear kitchen-diner zone with copious amounts of natural light. An exposed two-storey stone wall adds interest to the minimalist interiors, while a substantial patio space gives the occupants the option to entertain guests outdoors.
