"Architecture is not based on concrete and steel and the elements of the soil. It's based on wonder."â€”Daniel Libeskind, TED Talk

Internationally renowned architect Daniel Libeskind visits next week to discuss his career and commitment to expanding the scope of architecture. His approach to design embraces the notion that buildings are crafted with perceptible human energy and should address the greater cultural context in which they are built.

Born in Poland in 1946, Libeskind is known for his breathtaking designs for the Jewish Museum Berlin, the Denver Art Museum, the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto, the Military History Museum in Dresden, and the master plan for Ground Zero in New York City. Libeskind, who now lives in New York City, recently was selected to design a Holocaust Memorial on the grounds of the Ohio Statehouse.

This event is cosponsored by Ohio State's Knowlton School of Architecture.
