

In the hallway, an abstract sculpture by Tamu Gollmer greets visitors. The rug is a leftover from one of Jordan's collections

Right Zoë Jordan with two of her daughters, Eden and Dylan.
Below The outdoor dining chairs with vivid African prints were picked up from Sluiz, an Ibiza boutique that has a branch in Palma

Top Jordan inherited the table with the property and has teamed it with leather pouffes from Morocco. The Persian rug is an antique in the Kerman style. Above Marble sourced from Binissalem, on the island, tops the minimalist Poggenpohl kitchen

A peripatetic upbringing has meant that relocation doesn't daunt Zoë Jordan in the slightest. The daughter of motor racing figurehead Eddie Jordan, the fashion designer has lived in London, New York, Hong Kong and, since September last year, Mallorca. "We were just ready for another adventure," she explains. Mother to three girls, Eden, 5, Dylan, 4, and Inez, 1, Jordan, 37, and her husband, Steve Aspinall, were married eight years ago in Deia, on the northern ridge of the island, and settled in Calvia, in the southwest.

Their home is sleek, modern and open-plan, but designed using locally sourced stone and

LIFE IN THE SLOW LANE

As the daughter of a former Formula 1 team boss, the fashion designer Zoë Jordan spent much of her life on the move — until she found a sense of calm in Mallorca

Words Olivia Lidbury Photographs Katarina Tubio

materials, which lends a traditional feel. Jordan's desire for a "fresh, easy and relaxed type of lifestyle" is reflected in the decor, which she has tried not to over-complicate.

"I brought a lot of my art, then sourced local pieces. It was also important to make living areas outside as well as inside." Rugs picked up from the Spanish brand Calma House and vintage chairs from Sluiz are mixed with cushions in fabrics from South Africa. Jordan's approach mirrors how she designs: "I like things to be luxurious and feel good, but I like to add a bit of fun and twist of colour so it's not too serious." ■

zoe-jordan.com

A 'FRESH, EASY, RELAXED LIFESTYLE' IS REFLECTED IN THE DECOR

Left In the bathroom hangs a photograph taken in Namibia by Jordan's mother, Marie. 'There's quite a lot of her work around the house,' Jordan says. 'We got her a photography course for her birthday 10 years ago and she hasn't stopped.' The rug is from Calma House

Above The side table was made by a local carpenter; the light is from Pooky in the UK. Left The couple's B&B Italia bed is covered with a Moroccan bedspread from the concept store Oma Project in Mallorca. Above it are wall hangings from nearby Degauyhaus

Right Jordan had these vintage Italian armchairs covered in fabric by Christopher Farr. Behind them is a mixed-media artwork by David Spiller, a gift from her husband.

Far right The outdoor lounge area is dotted with cushions covered with fabrics from South Africa; the tables are from Sluiz

